Description

Daily Van Regional and urban delivery, trades and service Pick-up and delivery, trades and more Whether crossing cities and regional areas delivering goods, or working hard for tradies on the construction site, a Daily van has the specifications and features to do the job efficiently. With a broad selection of load space volume capacities, driveline, roof height and wheelbase options available, there's bound to be a Daily that suits. Urban and Regional applications Long hours behind the wheel and in start and stop are made easier in a Daily. A comfortable, quiet and well-appointed cabin reduces driver fatigue - entry and exit is easier in a Daily thanks to a lower chassis height and seat angle, making Daily perfect for couriers who can make dozens of deliveries per day. Complementing these appointments are extensive features designed to keep the driver, passenger and other road users safer, whether operating on busy metropolitan streets, highways or regional roads. Daily also has the cargo volume and GVM capacity to easily handle both heavy and volumetric loads, and when combined with its 3,500kg braked towing capacity, is even more efficient. Urban & Regional Deliveries 3.5 - 7 t Drive (Axles) 4x2 Engine fuel type Diesel Gearbox Automatic Hi-Matic Versions Van Trades Serious tradies need vans that are spacious and capable of carrying a wide range of equipment, tools and materials, so construction trades are perfect applications for a Daily van. Daily's tough, truck-like full C-Section steel chassis also makes it ideal for a range of internal fit outs, from simple shelving and racking to more complex trade set-ups. Along with the comfort, safety and tech appointments Daily offers, owners will also appreciate the cabin space and multitude of storage solutions including overhead, in-dash and under seat. Mobile service and response vehicles On-site machinery maintenance and repair services are an ideal application for Daily, especially high roof variants that allow technicians to stand upright in the cargo area to access tools and equipment or to have as a workspace to conduct repairs. Daily's full C-Section steel chassis allows for easy custom interior fitouts, while options such as rear differential lock provides improved traction when accessing slippery sites such as rural and agricultural depots, construction sites and similar. Optional rear electronically-controlled airbag suspension also provides advantages for Daily when transporting sensitive freight or to allow easier access to the load space and a level ride height no matter the payload weight.
